GOVERNMENT LOSES TEAPOT DOME SUIT!

Defense Launches Attack In Germ Case!

TESTIMONY OF DR. FAIMAN IS BASIS OF ASSAULT

Prosecution Rests Its Case
Star Witness Admits
Being Confused

CHICAGO, June 19.—With the completion of testimony by Dr. Charles C. Faiman, the state today rested its case against William D. Shepherd, on trial on a charge of having murdered his foster son, William Nelson McClintock.

The defense, through the first three witnesses, immediately launched an attack upon Faiman's testimony.

Miss Eva Peterson, stenographer in Shepherd's law office, testified for the defense that there was no Stoll & Shepherd Stationery Co. on which Faiman testified.

Shepherd had written him concerning a bacteriology course.

Miss Isabelle Anderson, former stenographer for Shepherd, testified that the partnership of Stoll & Shepherd was dissolved in June, 1919, all letter heads then being destroyed.

Arthur P. Conway, a self-confessed convict, who said he knew Faiman, testified that Faiman's reputation for truth and veracity was "very bad."

An attack on the testimony of Miss Isabelle Pope, young McClintock's fiancée, was the defense's next step.

Witness Confused
The state's carefully built case against Shepherd shows signs of crumbling today, as the star witness, Faiman, openly admitted he was confused by the hammering cross-examination of the defense.

To refute his testimony given in direct examination, the defense repeatedly confronted the witness with contradictory evidence he had given at the ball hearing.

Faiman, not so dapper as he appeared when he first took stand, sought refuge in sparse.

"I'm confused," he said in answer to William S. Stewart's rapid fire of questions.

"Of course you," answered Stewart in a tone of mock solicitude.

State Rests Case
Following Faiman's testimony the state rested its case. The defense then began introducing its evidence.

Frequent legal clashes between Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, and Stewart, chief of the counsel fighting to free Shepherd, hampered progress.

Bryan Will Aid State
In Trial of Teacher

ATLANTA, Ga., June 19.—William Jennings Bryan went into conference here today with the men who will assist him next month in the prosecution of John Thomas Scopes, Dayton, Tenn., high school teacher, who is under indictment for teaching evolution.

"The penalty for violation of the Tennessee anti-evolution law is a fine of from $100 to $500 and we will demand the full penalty," Bryan declared. The Scopes trial opens on July 10.

With speed trap restrictions provided in the California vehicle act adopted at the 1923 session of the Legislature partially removed, Glendale traffic officers now can watch from side streets for speeders, follow to check their speed and arrest them.

The amended vehicle act passed at the last session of the Legislature, now in effect, provides that officers "in a distinctive uniform" must be on a public street or highway at all times while on duty. It does not require that they must be on the same street or highway on which the alleged speeder is traveling at the time he is first "spotted."

Before the 1923 act went into effect speed traps were common throughout the state, where traffic officers laid in wait behind barricades or hidden in clumps of trees from where they were able to check the speed of motorists by the length of time it required to pass a given point.

Provisions of the new law to be taken advantage of here will probably swell the number of arrested speeders, but it is expected eventually to reduce speeding on Glendale streets.

Woman Wears Male Attire to See Man Hang

CHICAGO, June 19.—A woman drawn by a morbid curiosity for the first time in the history of Cook county, won her way by the guards at the county jail early today and watched Willis Sams, murderer of a policeman, hang.

Dressed in male attire, felt hat turned down to hide her hair, she faltered when the order came to remove hats and whispered to Deputy Sheriff Charles Peters, "I'm not a man, I'm really a woman. Must I take off my hat and let them all know?"

It was too late to remove her. The condemned man was already on the trap. A minute later the trap swung downward.

Later, the woman, identified as Katherine De Nault, a member of a theatrical company, was questioned by the sheriff and said she was unable to overcome a morbid curiosity to watch a man die. She was not detained.

Sams went to his death calmly. His last words were, "Forgive them, for they know not what they do."

BULLETIN
PEKING, June 19.—The foreign powers are willing to negotiate with the Chinese government the issues concerning both the organization of the international settlement at Shanghai and the administration thereof but first an agreement must be reached on the strike situation there.

This attitude was announced in a statement issued by the diplomatic corps here tonight.

SHANGHAI, China, June 19.—Anti-foreign riots have broken out at Chung King and foreigners are planning to seek refuge on warships. New riots have broken out here. British and Japanese shops were attacked. Severe relations with Great Britain are again being demanded at Peking.

AMUNDSEN TO AGAIN SEEK WORLD TOP

Explorer Believes He Can Reach North Pole In Another Attempt

COPENHAGEN, June 19.—Roald Amundsen wants again to try to fly to the North pole.

The newspaper, Social Demokraten, published a dispatch today which said Amundsen was "reticent and dissatisfied" upon his return to Spitzbergen and that he was determined to make a second attempt to reach the pole.

Amundsen believes, it was added, that because of his recent experience in the north he would be able to reach the pole on his next flight.

Members of the expedition were equally desirous of making a new attempt.

Valuable scientific data have been obtained, the dispatch said, and Amundsen's associates expressed high appreciation of his leadership.

Amundsen Fails To Reach Pole By About 100 Miles
OSLO, Norway, June 19.—Captain Roald Amundsen was the national hero of Norway today.

An official message of congratulation was forwarded by the Norwegian government to the explorer, who with his party has returned safely to Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, after being missing twenty-eight days in the regions of the North pole.

"The Norwegian government," the message said, "sends you and your brave companions hearty greetings and congratulations on your wonderful journey. Welcome home."

Members of the Intoursting, the Norwegian parliament, stood while the president opened the chamber session today with congratulations for Captain Amundsen. Dr. Statum told the chamber the soundings made by Amundsen within 160 miles of the pole were significant and valuable.

M. Salvesen, president of the Baltic White sea conference, proposed three cheers for Amundsen, Lieutenant Lincoln Ellsworth and the expedition crew of four men returned yesterday to Kings Bay aboard a Danish sailing steamer.

The expedition got to within

New Rockefeller Minister

"I want a church Abraham Lincoln could have joined." Thus does DR. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK state his plans for making a great liberal church of Park Avenue Baptist, New York City, of which the John D. Rockefeller, junior and senior, are members. He was called to the pulpit after demanding that his salary be limited to $5000 a year, that baptism by immersion be made optional, and the church thrown open to all Christians of whatever creed.

GAIN IN FIGHT CONFESSES TO ON SLEEPING SICKNESS KILLING GIRL IN ATTACK

Second Blood Transfusion On Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Success, Is Belief Uses Hammer and Knife In Terrific Death Duel With Stepdaughter

GLEN COVE, N. Y., June 19.—A second blood transfusion operation has been performed on Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, wife of the financier, it was learned today.

The latest transfusion, to combat the effects of sleeping sickness, from which she has been suffering in an acute form since last Sunday, occurred last night.

There was no announcement from the Morgan country estate this morning as to her condition. There was, however, an atmosphere of encouragement among employees, who understood she was "slightly improved."

An announcement as to her condition was to be given out during the day at Mr. Morgan's New York office.

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Thomas Gilchrist, 35, confessed today, police declared, that he beat with a hammer and then brutally cut the throat of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Olive Morris, 19.

Mrs. Morris, wife of a printer, died late last night, after she was removed to a hospital, suffering from a fractured skull and slashed throat.

Before she died the girl charged her stepfather with attempting to attack her and told police she was hit with a hammer and attacked with a knife when she defended her honor.

In the girl's bedroom there were signs of a terrific struggle.

BIG POLITICAL EARTHQUAKE EXPECTED

Death Of La Follette Will Cause Upheaval, Belief Of Party Leaders

By H. K. REYNOLDS
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, June 19.—The political consequences of the death of Senator La Follette will be far reaching.

In the opinion of Republican and Democratic leaders here his removal from the American political scene at this time will mean:

1.—The collapse of the independent movement, which La Follette started a year ago.

2.—The crumbling of the little bloc of insurgents in the Senate.

3.—An opportunity for the regular Republican organization not only in Wisconsin, but throughout the northwest, to capture control from the La Follette followers.

The third party was built solely around La Follette and had nothing except a national ticket before the voters. Immediately after the November election in which the Wisconsin senator polled more than four and a half million votes, the strongest groups in the La Follette ranks—notably the American Federation of Labor and the Railroad Brotherhoods—broke away and declared they would no longer support a third party movement.

Governor Silent On Successor To La Follette
MADISON, Wis., June 19.—All talk of the probable successor to Robert M. La Follette was pushed to the background here today as Wisconsin's capital made ready to receive the body of her most illustrious son.

"My best friend is dead. Can't we adjourn politics and political questions?"

This was Governor John J. Blaine's answer to all questions regarding the man who would be selected to "carry on" for Wisconsin.

"Senator La Follette is dead," he died as he had lived—courageous and full of love. The loss of his personal companionship is a deep, personal loss to innumerable men and women of Wisconsin.

For over a quarter of a century he had been the articulate voice of millions of silent, but hopeful citizens of the nation."

Pasadena Post Wins Vindication In Court

PASADENA, June 19.—After witnesses testified that they saw nothing worse at an alleged nude dance given at a dinner for members of the Pasadena post of Veterans of Foreign Wars than is common at the usual girl show, the case against Harry Singleton was dismissed today.

Singleton was held on charges of indecent exposure in connection with a nude dance.

Raymond Evans, commander of the post, and Floyd Sosey, a post member, will be tried July 3 on charges of aiding and abetting an immoral show.

Government to Appeal Verdict On Oil Lease

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The government will appeal to the United States supreme court in its fight to dispossess Harry F. Sinclair of his Wyoming oil leases, it was learned at the department of justice this afternoon.

The decision of Federal Judge Kennedy, holding the Teapot dome lease valid, came as a decided surprise to officials here who have been conducting the oil lease litigation, especially in view of the recent California decision holding the Doheny leases invalid.

Attorney For Doheny Expresses Gratification

Brush Fire Is Rushing Over Griffith Park

Hundreds of City Employees Fighting Flames Back Of Golf Links

Fire starting about 2 o'clock this afternoon is sweeping the brush covered Hollywood hills in Griffith park, Los Angeles just west of the Los Angeles river from Glendale.

A pall of smoke and a rapid rise in temperature was noticed all over this city at 3 o'clock as a five-acre area appeared to be burning in the vicinity of Bee rock, back of the municipal golf links.

Firesmen from Los Angeles, as well as hundreds of city employees were mobilized to fight the flames within an hour from the time the first curl of smoke was noticed by golfers, west of the south entrance of the park.

The defense contentions on practically every technical legal point involved in the policy of the navy and interior departments in leasing the oil lands were upheld by the court.

Judge Kennedy absolved navy officials, including former Secretary of the Navy Denby, from culpability in the negotiations for the Teapot Dome lands. He also said the government suffered no material damage.

The court declared that the executive order of President Harding transferring control of naval oil lands from the navy to the interior department was valid.

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Dr. Thomas W. Young, accused of gassing to death his pretty wife, Grace, and hiding her body in a cistern, entered a plea of not guilty today in answer to the grand jury indictment. Judge Edwin S. Hahn set the trial of the "scientific murderer" for August 17.

Young, a Los Angeles society dentist, calmly folded his arms over his breast when he appeared in court and in cool, calculating modulations entered his plea before a packed courtroom. Motion of Young's lawyers to quash the indictment on technical grounds was denied.

Missing 'Wolf of La Salle Street' Located In Mexico

John W. Worthington, Chicago's "Wolf of La Salle street," who escaped more than a week ago from the Glendale sanitarium with the aid of his daughter, Miss Alice Worthington, has been located in Mexico, department of justice agents in Los Angeles said today.

Worthington was receiving treatment here pending his entrance to Leavenworth penitentiary to serve a three-year sentence for using the mails to defraud. He will be taken into custody at once. The agents failed to reveal in what city Worthington had been located.

When Miss Worthington called at the local sanitarium on June 10 she told the authorities there that she planned to take her father only for a short taxi ride. They were not seen again.

At the time he was brought to the Glendale sanitarium Worthington was said to be in a dying condition, but he was well on the road to recovery at the time he left. For more than a week he had been taking short walks and rides around Glendale.

BIG CROWD AT HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

Impressive Ceremonies When Class of 1925, With 275 Students, Receives Diplomas; Hear Stirring Talk

By H. A. VAN DUSEN
Of The Evening News Staff.

Twenty-five hundred proud fathers and mothers and interested friends last night witnessed the impressive graduation ceremonies of 275 students of the Glendale Union High school. They packed the immense auditorium of the Broadway High school from the orchestra pit to the gallery beams and listened to a lengthy program that included exceptional musical numbers, presentations and a stirring address by Captain Paul Perigord of Pasadena.

Captain Perigord, introduced by George U. Moyle, principal, as a "famed soldier and a man with astonishing scholastic attainments," urged graduates to become assets to their nation, rather than liabilities.

"One who has lived all his life in America is prone to overlook the things that make this nation great," said the speaker. "But men and women can be given no greater privilege than to be a citizen of the United States, to be a part of this great country and to live in California."

Nation Has Everything
"Here you have everything, while in many other parts of the world today one's life is worth little, civilization has not advanced as it has here. This nation has everything; it is the most powerful country in the world, physically, mentally and spiritually."

Addressing parents of the graduates, Captain Perigord declared that, unlike savages of old, children are raised now to be offered to their nation, rather than as sacrifices to the gods. He urged the graduates to have a proper regard for the efforts of their parents and teachers to give them an educational start in life.

Points to Menace
"The thing that menaces the national life of America today is the drifting apart of families, the destruction of family life," the speaker declared. "There should be a close attachment between parents and children. One may be a great general, a great statesman or a great business man, but if his family life is broken, his whole life is a failure. So it is with a nation."

Graduates were urged to consider "what is my country worth to me?" and "what am I worth to my country?" Great things are possible in times of peace, he declared. He said that at a banquet of allied officers, held in New York after the close of the war, various soldiers were telling their plans for the future.

"When I said that I planned to be a teacher," he said, "they could not believe me. But I told them that I would sooner do my part in educating the youth of the land who will be the future powers of the world than to stay in the army and become a great general."

Show Appreciation
At the close of Captain Perigord's talk the graduating class, in a body, rose from the seats for a moment in silent appreciation of his address.

Mary Jo Phillips, president of the graduating class, presented to the school on behalf of the class two glass encased trophy cases which were accepted for the school by Principal Moyle. A. W. Tower, president of the Board of Trustees, presented the diplomas following presentation of the class of Principal Moyle.

Musical Program
The musical program drew generous applause. It included a procession, "War March of the Priests" by Mendelssohn and "Poet and Peasant" overture by von Suppe by the high school orchestra. "The Old Road" and "Bells of Shandon" were sung by the Senior Boys' Glee club, while Frances Kubert, one of the graduates, rendered two piano solos. A mixed quartet sang "Ma Lindy Lou" and "June." The high school orchestra presented ballet music from "Faust" by Gounod. The Senior Girls' Glee club sang "Will o' the Wisp" and "Pale Moca." Closing the program the orchestra presented the recessional, "Let All Rejoice," from "The Pilgrims" by Norman. Accompanists were Lucille Beach, Frederica Brown, Erma Lucas and Margaret Johnston.

"God told me to do it," Gilchrist said, according to police.

PRESIDENT OF LAW CLUB IS RE-ELECTED

Mrs. H. Greenwalt Honored By Members At Meeting Held At Libaray

Spirited progress of the Parliamentary Law club of Glendale is seen in greater degree for the coming year, by the re-election this morning of Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, who has served as president since the organization of the club in October, 1923.

Election featured the meeting at the public library. Other officers elected are: Mrs. Hugh Maron, vice-president; Mrs. J. W. Mair, corresponding secretary; Miss Milligan, recording secretary; Mrs. W. G. Lauderdale, treasurer; Mrs. Musser, auditor; Mrs. George Prickett, historian; Mrs. H. H. Harris, parliamentarian.

Sharing honors with Mrs. Greenwalt is Mrs. P. S. McNutt, well-known parliamentarian, who was chosen instructor for the coming year.

Founded in 1923

It was in the summer of 1923 that a group of thirty women organized into an informal class to study parliamentary law. They chose Mrs. Greenwalt as their instructor, and so inspiring was her leadership that a permanent organization resulted. Today the club claims fifty-seven members, and is a member of district, state and national federations of women's clubs. In addition to the study of law, club activity has included participation in civic and philanthropic movements, as well as social activity to develop friendship and interest among the members.

SCOUT HONORS BROUGHT TO GLENDALE

New Camp Plan for Summer Wins Praise of National Leaders of Move

National Boy Scout honors have come to Glendale by the innovation in camping activities to be inaugurated by Verdugo Hills council with the opening of summer troop camps next week. Scout Executive Harvey R. Cheesman and Roy L. Kent, president of Verdugo Hills council, are happy over the commendation received from James E. West, national Scout executive, and from L. L. McDonald, national camp director, for the plan outlined that will give over 300 boys vacations at a small fee in the San Bernardino mountains.

"The objects of these troop camps are to provide opportunity for Scoutmasters and troop members to become more intimately acquainted and to offer recreational advantages," says Mr. Cheesman. "It is an entirely new idea in Scouting. The custom is for Boy Scout councils to hold mass summer camps such as Glendale held last year. Under that system the Scout executive is in charge. Not often the Scoutmasters attend because it is not thought necessary."

Hold Own Outing

"Under the troop plan to be inaugurated this summer by Verdugo Hills council, the troops are making plans for their own outings, and each Scoutmaster must promise to accompany his troop and take charge of the camp. I will accompany the troop to the camp and stay over the first night and see that everything is in good order and the Scoutmaster in command. Then I will return on the final day to take the troop home."

Facilitating the camp program as outlined for the summer by Verdugo Hills council, is the purchase of a specially-built Graham truck, to be used for transporting outing parties and equipment to and from the camp sites, which will be near "Seven Oaks," Big Bear lake, Lake Arrowhead and Jackson lake, in the big pine timberlands, eighty-five to 115 miles from Glendale. Purchase of the truck was made possible through the aid of a group of Rotarians, including Roy L. Kent, president of Verdugo Hills council, and William Hunter, chairman of Glendale district. These men loaned the council the necessary funds without interest.

Regular transportation rates to and from the mountains would amount to between $12 and $13 per person, but with the use of the new truck, the council will be able to give each boy the outing, including food and transportation for $6.75.

Already twenty-nine troops out of the thirty-two included in the council, have reserved dates for camping and use of the truck. The troop sponsored by the Rotarians, with Dr. Warren Z. Newton, Scoutmaster, and Troop 4 of Burbank will be the first troops to camp in the mountains. They will leave next Monday.

Home Burns; Firemen Given Wrong Address

A home in the course of construction for Joe Andriozzone in the vicinity of the west end of Mayfield avenue, La Crescenta, was a total loss by fire at an early hour this morning. The house, a two story structure, was valued at $6500. Fire Chief Duncan who was directed to the fire by a circuitous route, states that when alarms are sent in exact locations should be given, enabling the department to take a direct route to the fire, which often means the saving of a home.

PLAN IMPROVEMENT FOR ATWATER TRACT

Paving, Sewers, Sidewalks, Ornamental Lights In Walnut Grove District Are Sought In Petitions

An improvement program embracing the installation of paving, sidewalks, sewers and ornamental lights on streets of the Walnut Grove district is sought in petitions now being circulated in the district. Garden, Edenhurst, Brunswick and Perla avenues and Regalli and Vesleigh streets are included in the area seeking improvement.

The contemplated improvement schedule is one of the largest ever undertaken in the Atwater section. Hundreds of thousands of dollars will be involved in doing the work.

Temporary grading of the Walnut Grove streets in the vicinity of Los Feliz boulevard spring, where floodwaters caused considerable damage, is under way.

Push Sidewalk Work

Rather than wait until sewer laterals through the district are in to get their sidewalks, residents of Ingledue terrace between Glenfelfz boulevard and Valleybrook road have ordered their sidewalks in under private contract. Work will be done immediately. Other sections of the Atwater district lying between Glendale and Los Feliz boulevard, where street work is tied up by the sewer installation, may follow the lead of Ingledue terrace owners and order their sidewalks in also. The city will not do the work until after the sewers are completed, owners have been notified.

Pave Brunswick Avenue

Paving of Brunswick avenue, where sewers have recently been installed, is under way at the present time. The sidewalk along Brunswick will also be continued from its present termination to Los Feliz boulevard.

Teachers Will Return

Announcement was made at the meeting of the Atwater Parent-Teacher association yesterday that Miss Rosalind Gates, soon to be wed, will remain as principal of the Atwater Grammar school during the 1925-26 term. Miss Audrey Clinton, teacher at the school, who will also wed during the summer months, will be back at the school in the fall, it was stated.

ANNIVERSARY OF STORE OBSERVED

J. A. Newton Co. Plans Big Celebration on Fifteen Years of Service

Fifteen years of faithful service to the public of Glendale is the record standing behind the J. A. Newton Electric Co., 154 South Brand boulevard, and the anniversary is being celebrated with a huge sale on electric goods this week.

J. A. Newton opened his first electrical store in this city fifteen years ago at 623 East Broadway. Three years ago the new spacious location on South Brand boulevard was first occupied. From a small institution at the outset, the Newton concern has grown to the largest electrical business in the city.

The latest in electrical appliances and fixtures are offered by Mr. Newton during his anniversary sale. Most of the fixtures as well as all wiring work is done in the Newton work shop located on Maryland avenue by a corps of experienced craftsmen. Every piece of work turned out is strictly guaranteed.

Wired Best Homes

Many of the best homes in the city have been wired by the Newton company. Properly lighted business buildings are a specialty. The concern handles "Serv-el" electrical refrigeration systems for the Glendale district exclusively. Three major lines of radio equipment are sold by the company, the Radiola, Gilfillian and DeForest. The radio department is open to the public every night until 8 o'clock.

The personnel of the Newton company at present consists of J. A. Newton, president; W. L. Hyde, vice-president, and O. W. Andersen, secretary-treasurer. After their years of service in Glendale the Newton company has evolved the slogan, "We have been Glendale's foremost electrical shop since 1910."

MUCH HAPPINESS IS DUE—

- To our ability to forget the mean things people say about us.
- To our determination to find the good in every one we meet.
- To our effort to do our work unusually well.
- To our habit of smiling when there isn't anything funny.
- To a willingness to live within our means.

TOO MANY LEADERS

Democrats are very much concerned about the status of the party and everywhere the question is being asked, "What is the matter with the Democratic party?" And no Democrat, or Republican either, is without an answer. Some say too much Bryan, and others declare there was too much "McAdooding" on the part of western and southern Democrats at the New York convention. But perhaps it has remained for the erstwhile leader of the party to hit the nail on the head.

John W. Davis, who retired gracefully to private life after being defeated in the presidential election, says the Democratic party is much like the Mexican army in one discouraging particular—it has a great scarcity of privates. The Mexican army has always been hampered by a superfluity of officers and a dearth of fighting men, which makes leadership impossible and combat out of the question, for, whether it is an army or a political party, there can be no leadership without followers.

It is a commendable trait to wish to get out of the ranks and to possess the courage and the will power to do so, but when too many are ambitious in this respect, the cause suffers, for it is the privates who furnish the motive force—who do the fighting.

Coming from a man of Mr. Davis' standing in national politics, this criticism ought to make an impression upon those who seek to control the affairs of any party, for the Democrats must admit that it was a surplus of leaders and factions that was the undoing of the party at the last convention and election. Perhaps Governor Al Smith has seen the light, for it is announced that he is to retire from politics and devote his time to literary work as soon as his present term as governor of New York expires.

PEOPLE MUST EAT

Perhaps we give too much time and attention to eating, yet so much depends upon food. A well-fed populace is contented and seldom complains or revolts. It is said the prime reason behind the uprising of the Riffs against France and Spain is crop failure in the native regions. It was famine that spurred on the French revolution and the Russian revolution.

A motion picture that is attracting considerable attention just now, one that is replete with suffering and tragedy, depicts the hardships of a tribe of people in the far east when drought has dried up the pastures and they are forced to migrate to keep from starving.

It is the food supply that determines which army will be victorious in battle, for there is more truth than elegance in the old saying that "an army travels on its belly."

In this country a crop failure in any section does not mean starvation for the country or any part of it. We do not depend upon any one product to sustain life. And we have never had to fight for the means of sustenance. Much depends upon food; much depends also upon the kind of food we eat. Dr. Harvey Wiley, the diet expert, says, "Let me prescribe the diet of the country; I do not care who makes its laws." We should be devoutly thankful that we do not know what it is to lack food and that here in California we have such an infinite variety of the vegetables and fruits that minister to health and happiness.

READING THE BIBLE

Many will be surprised to learn that an interpretation of the state constitution by an attorney general has been confirmed by the supreme court, declaring it is illegal to read the Bible in the public schools of California. No other state in the union has such a law. Within the past eight years thirty-seven of the forty-eight states have come to grant credit in high schools for Bible study, either in school or out, to say nothing of the legal right to simply read the Bible in the schoolroom.

The executive secretary of the California Church federation, F. M. Larkin, is authority for the statement that a constitutional amendment making it legal to read the Bible in the schools of California will appear on the ballot at the next state election.

A sectarian fight begins as soon as the matter of teaching the Bible in the public schools is broached, but to ban the mere reading of a book distinguished by such literary merit as the Bible smacks of the dark ages.

AWAY WITH ECONOMY

Economy has a pleasant sound when it is heard from as far away as Washington or Sacramento and when it promises reduction in taxes. But the idea is repugnant to us if it comes any closer home than that. Economy in government is splendid, but in daily living it is not to be thought of. We fight projects and improvements that would cost us from a few cents to a few dollars a year in taxes or assessments, yet when it is a question of something we want, personally, this small sum means absolutely nothing to us. We complain of the high tax rates and the high cost of living and then proceed to provide ourselves with luxuries such as royalty a decade ago never dreamed of.

Economy can be carried too far, both in government and in personal affairs. Idle money does no one any good. But, when the people, in large numbers, go into debt for the means of pleasure and for luxuries, simply to keep up with or get ahead of friends and acquaintances, we are headed for disaster.

RENO HAS RIVAL

Californians have suffered heartburning over the alleged competition of Florida as an attraction for people of wealth since that state passed a law abolishing the inheritance tax. But now it is said that Nevada is also about to have a rival in Florida, the city of Reno being particularly concerned. It is proposed to make anybody a citizen of Florida by affidavit and the establishment of a technical residence, the motive being a bid for the divorce trade. California cannot boast for it furnishes its share of the divorce business, but we have no desire to compete with Nevada and Florida in the establishment of divorce colonies.

A MUCH NEEDED 'BULL' IN THE CHINA SHOP

The Gold Standard and Honesty

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The reason why the best judgment of the world adheres to the gold standard is that it is honest. That is, there is enough in the bank to pay for all its obligations if they do not all come at the same time. There is a reasonable amount of gold kept in reserve.

Besides this anybody is willing to take gold. This may be irrational, but it remains true. No matter what a person's beliefs he will take gold for his debt.

Mr. George W. Hinman recently pointed out the effect of the adoption of the non-adoption that the gold standard had on various countries. Communists talk about capitalism and the conspiracy of money, and all that sort of thing, but the fact remains that capitalist countries, at the head of which are reckoned America and Great Britain, are the most prosperous countries.

Business may be all wrong, but at present, according to the way business is carried on, business thrives in those countries which have adopted the gold standard.

Misery thrives in those countries which have been affected more or less with socialism, especially Russia.

Russia puts up barriers to keep the poor at home, and the United States puts up barriers to keep the poor out.

As a matter of fact a country reverts to the gold standard simply because it prefers honest and straightforward means of doing business and is not bitten by the bug of inflation.

The departure from the gold standard in Germany and Austria has ruined millions.

A man is not safe in laying up money or in investing money in business unless he knows that his money will be worth about as much at some future time as it is now.

Inflation of money may bring a fictitious prosperity to the laborers as they are nominally paid more for their work, but the prosperity is entirely fictitious, for everything they buy costs more.

As long as misery is rampant in the communistic countries and prosperity in those of the gold standard, people will continue to believe that there is more in choosing gold as a basis for a country than mere theory.

A Good Gentleman tells a graduating class the secret of happiness is being in harmony with one's self.

Is such a thing possible?

Two voices speak in all of us. As long as two voices alternately speak to a man, what is right for one must be wrong for the other. But has any man ever been completely at one with himself?

The "inner" quality the philosophers prattle about is an "impossible and inconsistent pretension" to Schopenhauer.

"For as a man it is natural to him to be at war with himself as long as he lives. While he can be only one thing thoroughly, he has the disposition to be every thing else, and the inalienable possibility of being it."

"If he has made his choice of one thing, all other possibilities are always open to him, and are constantly claiming to be realized; and he has therefore to be continuously keeping them back, and to be overpowering and killing them as long as he wants to be that one thing."

For example, if he wants to think only, and not act and do business, the disposition to the latter is not thereby destroyed all at once; but as long as the thinker lives, he has every hour to keep on killing the acting, and pushing man that is within him; always battling with himself, as though he were a monster whose head is no sooner struck off than it grows again.

In the same way, if he is resolved to be a saint, he must kill himself so far as he is a being that enjoys and is given over to pleasure; for such he remains as long as he lives.

It is not for once and all that he must thus kill himself; he must keep on doing it all his life.

If he has resolved upon pleasure, whatever be the way in which it is to be obtained, his lifelong struggle is with a being that desires to be pure and holy and free; for the disposition remains, and he has to kill it every hour.

And so on in everything, with infinite modifications; it is now on one side of him and now the other, that he conquers; he is the battlefield. If on one side of him is continually conquering, the other side is continually struggling; for its life is bound up with his own, and, as a man, he is the possibility of many contradictions.

How is this Inner Unity even possible under such circumstances? Schopenhauer answers: "It exists neither in the saint nor in the sinner; or rather, the truth is that no man is wholly one or the other. For it is men they have to be; that is, luckless beings, fighters and gladiators in the arena of life."

This young man, John T. Scopes, the science teacher in the Dayton, Tenn., high school, deliberately courted arrest under Tennessee's new "anti-evolution law," in order that a court could decide whether the statute, which is similar to laws in effect in a number of other states, is constitutional.

He is 24 years old and a graduate of the University of Kentucky. His parents live in Paducah, Ky.

The case will not be tried until August. Then in the Rhea county courthouse, Bryan and other fundamentalists will line up against a voluntary defense counsel that includes Clarence Darrow and Dudley Field Malone, internationally famous lawyers, for a court battle that is certain to attract national, and even international, attention.

MERCHANTS JOIN FOR GALA EVENT

Los Feliz-Central Business Will Hold First Annual Bargain Sale Day

Business men having interests in the live community at Los Feliz and Central boulevards have gotten together and arranged their first annual sale event which will be held tomorrow, Saturday. Plans have been made to cause this day to be long remembered by the hundreds who will call on inspection or buying trips.

Not only will numerous special bargains be offered on this occasion but many worth-while articles will be given away free to customers as a memento of the day. Emphasis is laid on the fact there will be plenty of free parking space. Just for example attention is called to the following free gifts to be distributed: One pint of brick ice cream with every purchase of $1.00 or over, Central Pharmacy; one quart of eastern oil with every five gallons of gasoline or over, Fred Kinsley; a large sample of sliced bacon to every buyer, Henry F. Zilla; with every marcel a free reset any day next week, Nifty Beauty Parlor; an extra bunch of radishes with every 50-cent purchase or over, Safeway Fruit Market; while the R. S. S. Jackson Co.'s new rental department will gladly supply all information sought regarding Glendale. Owners of the Jefferson building will take part in the celebration as well as will Stacy who specializes in auto loans. The Safeway Stores will give patrons grocery bags with every purchase and also will give away, free, a coffee cake baked by the Bread Box bakery.

HIDES IN CAPITOL TREE

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—J. W. Auler of Fresno, accused of attempted grand larceny, for several hours last night baffled his pursuers by climbing a large elm in Capitol park and seeking refuge in its dense foliage. Auler is charged with taking an automobile belonging to R. C. Baren for the purpose of driving it to his machine which was stalled, and transferring the gasoline to his tank. He was without funds. Baren was a witness to the attempt and summoned the police. Auler vanished in the shadows of Capitol park, but was finally located by James Breed of the state police, who trained his searchlight into the arboreal growth until he discovered Auler sixty feet from the ground.

LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, June 19.—Graduation exercises were held last evening at the La Crescenta school auditorium and a class of eighteen who had completed their grade school work were awarded certificates of promotion. A. W. Clark, president of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce, addressed the class.

Mr. Clark said his father had carried the chain on the surveyor's gang for Lincoln, had heard of the struggle Lincoln made for his education and was fired by these tales with an ambition to study. Mr. Clark impressed the young folk with an idea of serving the community. Mr. Clark was well able to speak of service as he had devoted years to national child welfare and was instrumental in getting the bill passed that made the bureau what it is.

The diplomas were awarded by C. J. Rlenhard, Montrose member of the board of education and supervisor of the West Vernon city school. Being able to obey, he said, was a fundamental need in upbuilding of character. An essay on the need for parks was given by Gordon A. MacDonald, who said that though Los Angeles is considered the city beautiful it has not as much park space per person as many large cities. He pointed out the need for some portion of this valley being dedicated for this purpose before land becomes unprocureable. In the Anderson gave the history of the automobile. Her essay was well written and read.

The program announced by A. T. Blanford, supervisor of the school, was as follows: March of the class to music by the school orchestra some members of which are in the fourth grade; in the absence of Rev. Mr. Durr, Mr. Clark read the invocation; "Ghosts of Little White Roses" and "Morning" by the Glee club; "Azure Skies," school orchestra; "Flying Clouds," class sextette; "I Love a Little Cottage," Glee club; "Flag of True March," by the orchestra, led by Mrs. Earl Brown.

Those receiving diplomas were Alvar Anderson, Inger Anderson, Wesley Craig, Thelma Melonis Grey, Evelyn Carmen Jones, Eileen Charlotte Karr, Elma Ruth Kiehl, Elizabeth Talbot-Martin, Gordon A. MacDonald, Allen Ross McPherson, Kenneth Edmond Paden, Ruth Margaret Reynolds, Donald Skellie, Corliss Beatrice Strong, Harry A. Tate, Margaret Mary Titus, Ruth C. Titus and Vincent Oscar Wynne.

Monday evening the Rebekahs of the Verdugo Hills lodge will hold their regular meeting at Verdugo City auditorium. Hereafter the meetings will be on the second and fourth Mondays of each month. Members of the auxiliary of the Verdugo Hills Post No. 288 of the American Legion met at the home of Mrs. A. T. Blanford on West Prospect avenue. Graduates' Number Of 'Blue and Gold' Issued

The graduation number of "Blue and Gold," the Wilson school paper, was issued Thursday afternoon and proved one of the high lights of graduation week. The forty-page volume, which was dedicated to the teachers of Wilson school, was edited by a staff of A-S boys and girls. The book was designed to present the main features of Wilson school life and give to the members of the graduating class a record of their school days.

The volume was written and mimeographed by eighth grade students. It has been pronounced by critics to be far above the average paper usually issued by schools of the grammar grades. William Goss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Officer Kills Prisoner After Being Trampled

John Ballesteros, bandit suspect, was shot and killed by Patrolman Rich of San Fernando yesterday in a street battle during which the officer was knocked down and trampled on by his prisoner. Ballesteros was arrested after suspicions of the officer had been aroused by his actions. He was handcuffed but Ballesteros declared the cuffs hurt his wrists and asked that they be removed. Rich complied and was walking beside the prisoner when the latter whirled and felled him with a blow, then kicked and choked him. After a struggle of several minutes, Rich drew his gun and threatened to shoot. Ballesteros continued the struggle and the officer, after firing two shots into the air, put two bullets in the prisoner's body, killing him instantly. Chief District Attorney Buron Pitts said no action will be taken against Rich because he acted in line of duty and in self-defense. The body of the suspect was taken to the Noble mortuary in San Fernando.

Correction of papers of the Glendale real estate extension class has been completed at the University of Southern California, so that grades of the seventy Glendale students will be announced within a short time. D. C. Casselman, secretary of the Realty board, said today.

Papers for the first semester of the course, now back in the hands of Secretary Casselman, show that excellent marks were made by the Glendale realtors in the first half of the course. For the second semester an equally good showing has been made, according to word from S. H. Van Dusen, head of the metropolitan college department of the university. Arrangements for public graduation exercises, at which time the realtors will be presented with certificates indicating that they have successfully completed the real estate course, will be made public soon, Max Woods, chairman of the educational committee of the Realty board, stated.

Patron of Music Club Sets Ticket Example

An example for all loyal Glendaleans to follow has been set by Mrs. H. W. Peterson of 265 Keneth road, who has expressed the desire to be a patron member of the series of concerts to be presented next year by Glendale Music club, although she will be unable to attend any of the events. In sending in her check for the season ticket she wrote:

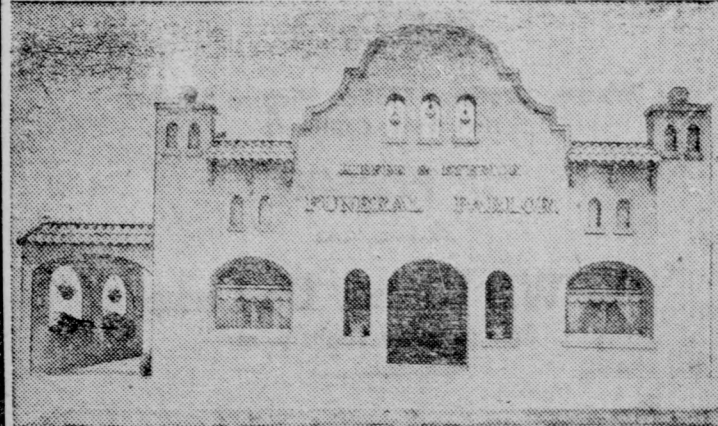

"As I shall not be able to use the ticket, please either give me a seat in an undesirable location, or please give a good location and present the ticket to some one that would enjoy the concerts." "That's the patriotic spirit that will put our venture over," said Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones, club president, in telling of the incident this morning. "That is an example for everyone in Glendale, whether they are music lovers or not." Mrs. Jones stated that lists of patron and individual members will not be published in The Glendale Evening News until Monday. She also states that no names will be published unless a deposit accompanies the reservation.

CHINA C. OF C. ASKS SHOPS TO RE-OPEN

General Strike To Continue
In Spite Of Decision,
Rules Labor Union

SHANGHAI, June 19.—The Chinese Chamber of Commerce voted today to reopen the shops and banks in the foreign settlement Saturday or Monday.

The chief labor union, representing 200,000 workers, announced that the general strike would continue, regardless of the reopening of the shops and financial houses.

The decision of the chamber was unanimous, following debate in which the consensus of opinion was expressed that the strike was being misinterpreted as an anti-foreign move and its continuance futile.

The chamber appointed a special committee to consider plans to free China from the necessity of using foreign goods. It was also decided to bring pressure on the ministers of foreign affairs, urging a strong stand on the thirteen demands that have been made on the foreign powers in connection with the local strike.

It was not believed that the chamber's withdrawal would materially affect the general situation here, as the laborers, particularly the seamen, are maintaining a determined opposition. It is probable that hereafter the strike efforts will be concentrated among the seamen and the wharf coolies in order to deliver the hardest blows against the British.

Hold Campfire Council At Sycamore Grounds

The members of Acoma Council of the Western Rangers, Glendale, will attend a campfire council to be held at Sycamore grove, Los Angeles, on Friday night. Although there will be no more council meetings at the Glendale Avenue Intermediate until school opens in September, many hikes are to be held. The first of them is to be taken on Saturday and Sunday to Precipio canyon, in the San Gabriel mountains, where the Rangers are building a cabin. There will be "something doing" for the boys every week-end during the summer, states Charles D. Perlee, guide of the Glendale district.

VOCAL NUMBERS GIVEN AT CLUB

Harry Becker Renders Songs Before Kiwanians On Novel Program

Vocal selections by Harry Becker, of Glendale, accompanied by Mrs. Becker, and radio music furnished by a portable super-heterodyne supplied by William G. Bode, provided the entertainment portion of the Kiwanis club program at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse today noon. Rev. Clifford A. Cole presided during the absence of President Frank Fox, and Mrs. G. C. Kramer officiated as assistant secretary.

Plans for the zone meeting, to be held at Eagle Rock on Monday, starting at 5:40 o'clock, were announced at the meeting. The Eagle Rock club will be hosts to other clubs in the third zone, at the same time the international convention is being opened in St. Paul. The meeting will be held at the Masonic temple Sunday and meetings will be held by 1400 clubs simultaneously, attended by 94,000 members, it was announced.

The program today was in charge of the entertainment committee, consisting of William G. Bode, William G. Lauderdale, Herman Nelson, Simon Berman and Hiram E. Wilson. M. D. Davis, chairman of the committee, is en route to St. Paul as delegate from the local club to the convention. Visiting Kiwanians present to day were: Charles N. Miller, Los Angeles; K. M. Barager, Long Beach, and Harvey Collins, Redlands. Rex Kelley spoke on the Y. M. C. A. conference at Estes Park, attended by him and H. Park Arnold. The attendance prize, donated by Frank Echols, was won by Harry Hall. Emil Keifer spoke on his trip to Yosemite park. Others who told of vacation trips included Harry Hall.

Government Loses In Teapot Dome Oil Suit

naval lands from the interior department was practically eliminated from the Teapot case because government counsel had not attacked the president's right to issue such an order. This order was attacked by Frank Fox, who was won by Harry Hall. Emil Keifer spoke on his trip to Yosemite park. Others who told of vacation trips included Harry Hall.

Secrecy Not Proven
Judge Kennedy said the charge of secrecy in connection with negotiations between Fall and Sinclair for Teapot were not substantiated. Dozens of departmental officials of both the navy and interior departments, he said, were thoroughly familiar with all the plans. He said the fact that Congress was not consulted was not significant.

The court indicated that the charge of secrecy growing out of failure of the departments to make the lease under competitive bids did not hold, as, in his opinion, it was justified and the lease negotiations were carried out in an ordinary business manner.

Federal Court Decision 'Gratifying' To Sinclair

NEW YORK, June 19.—"I am extremely gratified by the decision. There is nothing more I can say now."

Harry F. Sinclair, head of the Sinclair oil interests, made this statement this afternoon at the Aqueduct race track, when informed of the verdict in the federal court at Cheyenne, legalizing the government lease of Teapot dome to his company, the Mammoth Oil Co.

Sinclair Stocks, Bonds Advance On Court Verdict

NEW YORK, June 19.—Sinclair stocks and bonds advanced sharply this afternoon upon receipt of news from Cheyenne that the government had lost its suit to declare invalid the Teapot dome naval oil lease granted to Harry F. Sinclair.

Blocks of stocks in lots of from 1000 to 4000 were thrown upon the market in a heavy rush of trading.

Sinclair common stocks advanced from 22 1/4 to 24 1/4 and Sinclair convertible 6 per cent bonds jumped from 113 1/4 to 117 1/4.

France, Spain United In Blockade of Riffs

PARIS, June 19.—Franco-Spanish negotiations at Madrid have agreed on naval co-operation in the blockade against the Riffs, the foreign office announced today.

At the same time the cabinet approved a drive of the French secret service against French Communists charged with lending moral aid to Abdel Krim, leader of the Riffian tribesmen.

CORNERSTONE OF CHURCH IS READY

Baptists To Hold Ceremony Preceding Erection Of Their New Edifice

Recalling July 5, 1904, when a small group of Baptists met at the home of S. C. Marchant and decided to organize a Glendale Baptist church the cornerstone of the new edifice of the First Baptist church will be laid with impressive ceremony at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, at East Wilson avenue and North Louise street.

The event is of more than ordinary significance in that it will mark the sixth anniversary of the coming of Rev. Ernest E. Ford to the pastorate. Sunday morning Rev. Ford will preach his anniversary sermon, preliminary to leaving next Monday with Mrs. Ford for the Northern Baptist convention at Seattle, Wash.

In anticipation of the new church home it is interesting to note the following comparisons: Six years ago there were 250 members of the church, today there are 830; six years ago there were sixty-five members of the Sunday school, today there are over 700; the total amount raised for benevolence six years ago was $657.24, the past year a like fund amounted to $8567.32; six years ago the fund for local relief amounted to $3485.46, the past year a like fund amounted to $9895.56.

All Were Pastors

Pastors of the church since its organization have been Rev. C. W. Miller, Rev. E. K. Fisher, Rev. W. F. Stone, Rev. J. F. Moody, Rev. Eugene Haines, Rev. John H. Troy, Rev. Vernon H. Cowart and Rev. Ernest E. Ford.

The ceremony of laying the cornerstone will include: Hymn, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow"; prayer of invocation, Rev. J. F. Gasser; responsive reading, pastor and congregation; fraternal greetings, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, president of Ministerial association; hymn, "How Firm a Foundation"; address, Dr. W. F. Harper, executive secretary of the Southern California Baptist convention; laying of cornerstone, Rev. Ernest E. Ford, assisted by Charles Cressey, architect; hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds"; benediction.

Official Dead, Another Shot in Pistol Duel

SAN DIEGO, June 19.—James M. McClenney, postmaster at Aguanga, Riverside county, is dead today in a mortuary at Oceanside, 45 miles north of here, and Alfred Nuckols, immigration inspector, is battling for his life with eight pistol wounds in his body at a local hospital as the result of a savage and close-range pistol duel between the two men late yesterday at Encinitas.

Although it has not been definitely established by investigating officers, it is believed the fight was the outgrowth of a personal quarrel of long standing between the two men. McClenney is asserted to have made the allegation that Nuckols flirted with Mrs. McClenney.

HIGHWAY FUND IS REDUCED ONE-THIRD

Money for New Road Work Is $4,000,000 Less Than First Estimates

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—The State Highway commission today entered the controversy over how much money it will have for new construction purposes during the coming biennium with the declaration that only $8,200,000 will be available for new roads.

The highway board's estimate, which was made public today by Secretary W. F. Mixon, is approximately $4,000,000 less than estimates of State Controller Ray L. Riley and State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, who opposed the 3 cent gasoline tax bill for new road work.

Expend Large Sum

Mixon estimated total collections for new roads at $11,400,000 of which $3,200,000 is already obligated by contracts now in force.

Maintenance and reconstruction funds, the highway secretary said, will boost the total appropriation for road work during the two year period to $34,074,000, of which $9,225,000 is already pledged.

Twenty-eight Killed In Russian Snowfall

MOSCOW, June 19.—Twenty-eight persons were killed in a snow storm that wiped out two villages in the province of Altai, according to advices received here today. Snow covered northern Russia for the first time in a century in June as an aftermath of the southern storm.

NEW SUGAR FACTORIES

DENVER, June 19.—The Great Western Sugar Co. will build two new factories at once in Colorado, as a result of the president's determination not to reduce the tariff on Cuban sugar. "A reduction in the tariff would have prevented this progress," said W. L. Petrik, president of the company today.

Bring Atmosphere of Broadcasting Studio

Radio fans who have listened in when KFWE, Warner Brothers' Motion Picture Studio radio broadcasting studio, is on the air nightly, will have an opportunity to see some of the leading artists in person Sunday night at the OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB, when "Radioland Night" will be celebrated. Below are pictured some of the radio artists who will appear. Top row, left to right, "BILL" HATCH, pianist; NORMAN MANNING, studio

The Oakmont Country club is presenting a unique program at the clubhouse, Sunday night, June 21, at 7:30 o'clock.

Radio artists from KFWE, Warner Brothers' motion picture studio broadcasting station, will be there in person. This is a rare opportunity for radio fans to see some of their favorite entertainers of the air. Warner Brothers' radio broadcasting station is one of the latest to be built, and in the short space of time it has been in operation it has made a most enviable reputation as a purveyor of entertainment and information to those who listen in. Studios of music, motion pictures, photography and other arts have an individual atmosphere, peculiar to their own environment. This is true of the broadcasting studio also. The radio studio is the least known from a personal contact point of view, and this fact will be seen by those who attend the entertainment at the Oakmont Country club.

KFWE, Warner Brothers' motion picture studio broadcasting station, will bring the studio atmosphere and the following entertainers: Norman Manning, manager of KFWE; Charles Wellman, the jovial announcer; Miss Billie Dunn; Master Albert Keglovich, 12-year-old violinist; Master Breffni Beggs, 9 years old, who won a medal in the Elstedford contests in the oratory section; "Bill" Hatch, pianist; Ray Kellogg, violinist; the Oakmont Country club orchestra; Charles Beauchamp, tenor, "Ace of the Air"; Vernon Kloe, concert pianist; Katherine Martin, soprano; Frank Stever, baritone, and "Our Peggy" Mathews of KFWE. The public is invited to the Oakmont Country club to witness the action they can not see over the radio.

SWEEPSTAKES OF THE LOS ANGELES-YOSEMITE ECONOMY RUN WON with ZEROLENE

The Los Angeles-Yosemite Economy Run of May 22-23—the ranking stock car event of its kind in the United States, gave motordom new official mileage records to vie for—and another impressive victory for Zerolene!

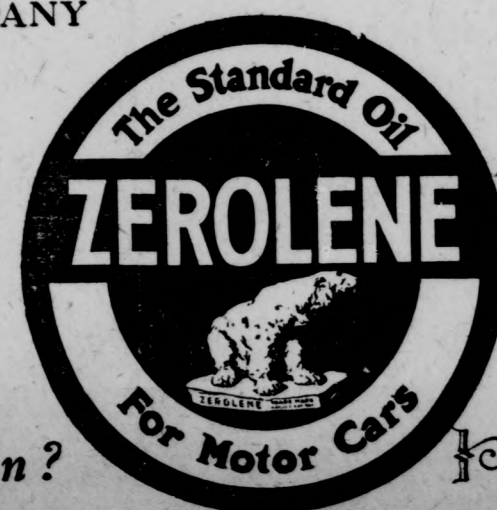

The Rollin, lubricated with Zerolene, carried off the sweepstakes—winning the award for the highest efficiency and gasoline economy established in the run. Piloted by Joe Bozzani, the Rollin's gasoline economy record for the 360 mile run from Los Angeles into the Sierras to Camp Curry was 27.43 miles per gallon of gasoline.

When Zerolene brings in the Sweepstakes Winner of the most competitive motoring event of the year—when it is the choice of more motorists in the Pacific Coast states than any other oil made—won't it pay you to use Zerolene—a better oil even if it does cost less?

FUNERAL TRAIN STARTS FOR MADISON

Senator La Follette's Body Leaves Capitol After Friends Pay Homage

By KENNETH CLARK
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, June 19.—Away from the strife of politics, away from the scenes of his greatest triumphs, away from the worries and toils of a swift-moving world, Senator Robert Marion La Follette of Wisconsin, starts home today for his well-earned rest. And, he goes as he said just before his death, "at peace with all the world" and "with love in my heart for all the people which sustained me throughout life."

But, before he is carried away for the last time to Madison, Wis., he will lie quietly in that little home in Wyoming avenue where, with a smile on his lips, and surrounded by those dearest to him—his family—he closed his eyes in eternal sleep.

Express Sympathy
There he will pause for a brief few hours that the people he loved and for whom he fought for so many years might pay final tribute to his memory.

And, to him, these people came throughout the long, hot day. They were of all sorts, rich and poor, high official and clerk, and in grief at the passing of this dynamic little man who for more than three decades had been so prominently in the national political arena.

They came to express condolences to the widow and the two sons, and two daughters, and to pause a moment before the unpretentious coffin that held his mortal remains. There was grief, a deepest grief, in the little flower-filled home, but for all, it seemed as if "Dad," as they had always called him, had laid down to rest and had fallen asleep and the whispering and tip-toeing were that he should not be awakened.

They were a brave lot—his family—and they bore up well under the terrific strain. For weeks they had gone sleepless to stay by his side as he lay seriously ill; they had ministered to his every need; they realized that the end was approaching but never flinched, not one, and least of all Mrs. La Follette.

La Follette always hated trapings and pomp and hypocrisy. He lived a false life—three score and ten—of utmost simplicity. In death, simplicity will mark his last journey homeward and his last.

The funeral train, a special section of the Capital Limited of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, will leave Washington at 3 o'clock for Madison. The coffin will be placed on a simple catafalque in the observation car. The family will occupy compartments in the same car.

Senatorial Delegation
Other cars will be occupied by members of the special senatorial delegation appointed to attend the funeral and close friends of the family. Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, who was La Follette's vice-presidential running mate, will head the Senate group.

The route is through Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. Stops will be made only to change engines. Tomorrow morning the special will be shunted to the Chicago & Northwestern for the trip to Madison. The funeral party will arrive in the state capital late Saturday afternoon.

The body will lay in state in the capitol Saturday night and Sunday and burial will be Monday.

Honduras shipped 1,200,000 bunches of bananas to other countries last April.

Chicago high school girls are given lessons in golf by a professional.

COMMENT BY GIL A. COWAN

In the death of Senator Robert M. La Follette this country has lost a man who was the maker of men as well as a big figure in American politics.

The achievements of "Fighting Bob" were great enough, but in his battles over public issues he brought out the greatness and ability in others opposing him. Also he served as a spur to the balking Democratic mule and the sometimes lethargic Republican elephant.

La Follette was ridiculed as a radical, yet his vision was never red. He was incessantly the "target" for the conservative element in government, yet they had usually to meet him more than half way in order to gain their own ends, which shows what a powerful factor one man may be.

President Calvin Coolidge today looms twice as large as he otherwise would because of the La Follette campaign last fall. And now to think that the Wisconsin senator was "read out" of the Republican party for his almost single-handed wrecking of the Democratic party!

La Follette really never injured the Republican cause. He did worry some of the "big business" men who tried to control the two large political parties. They are always afraid of the shadow.

Not unlike Roosevelt, the spirit of La Follette will live on for many years. Such men as he are born to challenge, not to dominate; to be ever watchful of the public weal. Their lives are not in vain, even though a larger share of the people disagree with their views.

Amundsen's safe return to civilization is a bit spectacular. Yet it does not impress the writer as overly important. If there had been anything at the North pole for his party to have found, bearing in mind that the pole was discovered some years past, this trip would not have been in vain.

As matters stand now, a few newspaper feature stories, Chas. S. Taft's subject matter for a season and great relief for near relatives of Amundsen's expedition members is about all there is to their joy-ride over the frozen northern wastelands.

Glendale's glorious sunset last evening should inspire the poetic. Colors in the clouded sky surpass the dream of beauty which our madmen of electricity try to reproduce.

The mountains, the ocean, the light clouds floating in from the horizon and across the desert at sunset combine that which no mortal can match.

Yet the writer remembers an illusion produced at Salt Lake City five years ago for the closing act of a pageant presented at the National Education association meeting.

It had been noted that the smoke from copper smelters floating across the Great Salt Lake's sheen gave a prismatic kaleidoscopic lighting effect in the natural amphitheatre where the pageant was taking place. But not until the show was over did the secretary of the Merchants' association reveal the fact that forty "hunkies" were hired to stoke the fires to produce the smoke that clouded the lake and produced colors in the sky such as the visitors had never seen.

Another class has graduated from Glendale Union High school—recruits in the army of life. The most of them will continue their scholastic work, no doubt, in the coast's many colleges and universities. Others will set about to earn their living.

Their problems to a large degree are the problems faced by all of us, but what sort of opportunities are made for this addition to the workaday world? True, Los Angeles close by offers a big field for labor. What can Glendale business men offer? That is what these earnest youngsters will want to know in the next few days.

They have completed their prescribed studies. It's time for parents and the elders to do some thinking now!

By Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, June 19.—"For want of something better to do a group of women are trying to form a sex party—a woman's party—apart from the Democrats and Republicans," Congressman Frank Murphy of Ohio, guest speaker at the City club here revealed in a speech relating how the representatives of the people at the national capital were beset by lobbyists.

Murphy is a member of a congressional committee visiting the Southland for two days. Lighting of city streets will cost $40,000 more this year, or a total of $436,000, budget figures revealed. The municipal water bureau also, seeks $612,000 for water used in flushing the streets, irrigating parks, etc.

Evolution will be argued in public debate here tonight at the Bible Institute, William B. Riley, executive secretary of the Christian Fundamentalist association opposing it and Maynard Shipley, president of the Science League of America defending the Darwin theory.

Four Los Angeles motorcycle policemen are in the hospital from injuries received while on duty, S. F. Carter being the latest, a victim of a broken leg, according to Receiving hospital reports.

Strong Role

CHARLES RAY in 'Dynamite Smith' at the Cosmo theatre.

His only adventures had been those in books; his loves were the heroines of the printed page; his daily dissipations were one after dinner pipe and a glass of sweet cider, his work no more exciting than writing book reviews and covering highbrow lectures for a newspaper. Then, one day, he amazed all who knew him, and especially himself, by running off with another man's wife!

Gladstone Smith was this man's name, and he is the hero of "Dynamite Smith," portrayed by Charles Ray in the picture produced by Thomas H. Ince and showing today and tomorrow at the Cosmo theatre. It is a powerful and dramatic story of a young man who, ill-equipped for the ruthless battle of life, suddenly finds his character put to severe tests. "Dynamite Smith" was written by the screen's master author, C. Gardner Sullivan. He wrote many of Ray's greatest successes. Ralph Ince directed. The cast includes Bessie Love, Jacqueline Logan, Wallace Beery and Lydia Knott.

Shows Class

One of the Vanity Dolls to be seen on the vaudeville stage at the Glendale Theatre today and tomorrow.

One of the most unique and beautiful acts from the standpoint of settings, gowns and girls will be seen today and tomorrow at the Glendale theatre, when the Vanity Dolls make their bow to local theatregoers. Four of the most accomplished and most attractive girls that have traveled the vaudeville route will be seen. They are two pairs of sisters; Mildred and Alice Fay who specialize in artistic dancing numbers, and Marie Albertine and Edythe Muriel who devote their attention to the musical end of the act. The harp numbers of the Muriel sisters are worthy of special notice. The act has been gorgeously costumed and elaborately staged.

new act of the ordinary one, so Bergen & Co. in their artistic ventriloquial offering "The Operation" have a skit that is along brand new lines when they offer a one act playlet in which half the company consists of ventriloquists' dummies. They have not overlooked the required amount of romance necessary to put the human interest into their work. Incidentally this act reveals one of the prettiest girls to be seen in vaudeville. A laugh a minute is guaranteed.

Clever Offering
Two girls from "down under," Carmen & Rose have a decidedly clever offering of singing, dancing and comedy and like the majority of Australian acts they have perfected their routine to the last degree.

"As in the Days of Nero" is the somewhat ambiguous billing of Hurio, who it develops is a physical wonder of the Hercules type. Some of the things Hurio does seem to be from the realm of the impossible, yet he does them and with apparent ease. "In the Land of Laughter" is the cognomen of Scream Welch and Sig Mealy, the great and the small of the acrobatic, singing and dancing world.

Picture Production
"You Can't Get Away With It" is the title of a picture produced by William Fox from the story by Gouverneur Morris, which will also be shown at the Glendale. The moral is that conventions won't be defied, whether right or wrong is responsible. The story deals with a working girl who accepts the illicit love of her employer in order to attain the luxuries of life. Percy Marmont, who succeeded so notably as Mark Sabre in "If Winter Comes," has the leading role in this production, with Betty Bouton in the principal feminine part as the mistaken girl. A strong cast is said to have made one of the really impressive plays of its kind of the current season.

ROMAN MOSAIC FOUND

VIENNA, June 19.—A wonderful Roman mosaic has been discovered on the right bank of the Danube, where the ruins of the Roman town of Aquincum are situated.

In the first four centuries after Christ, Aquincum was used as a frontier station by the Roman legionaries. Now among the ruins, a mosaic picture measuring nearly sixty square yards has been discovered in which experts see a copy of the celebrated Farnesian Bull, by the brothers Apollonios and Tauriskos, from Tralles, who worked about 150 B. C.

HAS WON HONORS IN MASK MAKING

Production Man Of Theatre Has Shown His Art In Preview Of Play

Fred Warrington, production manager of the Lexington Players who open Monday night at the Playhouse with "Icebound," has been connected with the theatre for many years and has been stage manager and technical director for one of the motion picture studios in Hollywood. Mr. Warrington has been connected with practically every branch of the theatre and is considered one of the ablest men on the coast.

For several years he owned the "Hollywood Prop Shop," an interior decorating establishment for professional houses, and he is known as one of the finest mask makers in the country. It was Warrington who made the rubber masks for the special preview of "Passion" at the Ambassador hotel before it was seen publicly. These masks caused quite a sensation and brought much fame to their maker. It is to be hoped that in some of the future productions of the Lexington Players he may be able to display his art along this line.

MIX PRODUCTION SEEN AT GATEWAY

'Teeth,' Last Film Made By Star Before Trip To Europe

Last night at the Gateway Tom Mix's production "Teeth" was received with favor. This picture has the usual "Mix" quality and will not fall short in any respect to what may be expected by any of his fans.

This film was the last to be produced by Mix before taking his trip abroad—so we feel sure that anyone can see the special effort which Tom put into his work. "Teeth" will run again today and Saturday.

CANADA CALLS DUTCH

MONTREAL, P. Q., June 19.—Shortage of farm land in Holland will result in a heavy influx of Dutch settlers to Canada this year, according to immigration officials here.

"Agents of the Dominion government in The Hague and Rotterdam are preparing for the movement of thousands of farmers from the Netherlands this summer," said an official. "There is not enough land available in the Netherlands for agricultural expansion of the present population."

"These farmers are turning to Canada for their opportunity. In 1924 several thousand Dutch settlers arrived in Canada, most of whom were farmers, and went on the land."

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

Cleft Palate
Mrs. R.—You must take your baby suffering with a cleft palate to a children's specialist or to a baby hospital or clinic, and get an expert opinion as to the advisability of performing an operation now, or waiting until later.

The time of operation will probably depend upon the nature and extent of the cleft. Some surgeons advise that it be done as early as the tenth day. Some very wonderful work is done by experts on these conditions.

Effects of Correct Diet in Pregnancy.
"Dear Doctor Peters: I am enclosing the self-addressed stamped envelope in which please send me your article on Diet during Pregnancy. I am going to send it to my little cousin who is way off in Brazil and expecting her first baby. She says it is hard to get literature there."

"I am an ardent follower of yours, Dr. Lulu. My mother has reduced successfully by your 'Diet and Health' and I have read it with interest myself. It was quite a help to me in my effort to keep from gaining more than the 15 to 20 pounds you allow, before my last baby was born. Being very small myself, I set my limit at 15 pounds, and succeeded. My baby weighed seven pounds as compared with my first one who weighed seven and one-half, and my second who weighed eight and two ounces. This was the first birth without instruments and was a very quick and so-called 'easy' birth."

"I am now feeding her, as well as numbers one and two, hubby and myself, a la Peters."

"My friends must grow weary of hearing me quote you, although some of them are also converts and we sing your praises together."

"In my college days I hoped to write myself—although you would never guess it from this letter—but am too busy bringing up three little careers to have one of my own."

It is quite usual for the second and third babies to be easier births than the first, so I won't take full credit, Mrs. L., although there is no doubt that your dieting had a good deal to do with the results."

It is important that a mother does not gain excessively while she is carrying her baby. Obstetricians are now paying a great deal of attention to the weight of the prospective mothers. An excessive increase in weight means excessive eating and that means many minor disturbances and possibly the major disturbance of eclampsia (convulsions of pregnancy), in which both the lives of the mother and baby are in jeopardy.

As far as your career is concerned, Mrs. L., you are fulfilling it in the highest possible manner. There is no career higher than motherhood when it is given the thought that you are giving it. When the children are older and you do not have to give them so much attention, you will have lots of time for a writing career.

Thank you very much for writing enough now to write your nice letter, Mrs. L.

Vaccination
Mrs. P.—It does not always mean that if a vaccination does not take, a person is immune to small pox. Perhaps the vaccine was not potent. You should have your children vaccinated again. The modern methods of vaccination do not leave large scars. Just one or two very tiny scratches, or a few needle pricks through the tiny droplet of vaccine is the method now. No, a bunion pad should never be used as a protection.

A few tetanus cases have resulted from this practice. Some physicians advise two or three layers of sterile gauze loosely strapped on (to prevent contamination and scratching).

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. I cannot answer you by mail, but I will answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

News of Wedding

The wedding of Miss Margaret Ballinger of Los Angeles, well known in Glendale, and Glenwood Ballinger of Iowa, was solemnized Wednesday night, June 17, 1925 at 8:30 o'clock at St. Vincent's Methodist Episcopal church, Los Angeles. Dr. C. M. Crist, formerly pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church of Glendale, assisted in performing the marriage ceremony.

The bride wore an exquisite dress of white satin trimmed with pearls and beads. She wore a wedding veil and carried a bride's shower bouquet. Miss Mary Rich of Glendale, a girlhood friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore pink chiffon with a silver band in her hair. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Six Los Angeles girls in dresses in pastel shades, were bridesmaids. Elwood Ingledue of Glendale, was best man. The church was elaborately decorated with spring flowers and ribbons in effective arrangement. After the ceremony a reception was held at the church for all wedding guests and later a reception for 250 guests was held at the Ballinger home on Seventh street, Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Ballinger left for an extended honeymoon trip to Grand Canyon, Arizona, and other points. Among Glendale people attending the wedding were: Miss Helen Inslede, Mrs. C. E. Rich and son, Charles E. Rich, and Miss Agnes Brown.

Home From School

Miss Grace Yarbrough, who has been attending Greensboro College at Greensboro, North Carolina, arrived in Glendale Monday night to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Yarbrough of 220 South Chevy Chase drive. The Greensboro College is a girls' college and Miss Yarbrough will return in the fall to take up her third year of study. Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

DRESSING GOWNS

The dressing gown should be one of the prettiest features of a woman's wardrobe, yet most women begin their dress economy at this point. Even if you are the busiest sort of person there are still some moments of the day when you must put on a dressing gown or bathrobe, and there is no reason why you shouldn't be attractive in it, if only for five minutes.

Dressing gowns are easy to make and inexpensive. If you are a young woman and like frivolous garments, use up your old evening dresses in this way. An old dance frock can be converted into a most charming negligee by adding flowing sleeves and perhaps a cape of chiffon and inexpensive lace.

Dressing gowns can be made up of all sorts of odd bits if one is really clever. Old lace boiled in tea looks new and becomes the smart beige color so much used. Faded silks washed with colored soapflakes or powder, or dipped in the various cold water dyes, turn out the most attractive new colors.

Terry cloth comes now in all sorts of bright shades, and is so cheap that a bathrobe can be made for very little. Old winter coats with the interlining removed and light collar and cuffs substituted for the heavy ones will make warm, tailored and very attractive dressing gowns for cold country houses. Quilted satin, once sold for lining coats, is cheap enough to make into inexpensive dressing gowns, and should be made up in nice tailored styles.

You should, by the way, study your type, for not everyone looks well in the frothy combinations of chiffon and lace which constitute most women's ideas of a good looking negligee. Many women who find coats and skirts their most becoming daytime costume prefer the new tailored coat-like negligees of plain satin or wool.

Here's a pretty style rise, but aim to do the exercises without this assistance as soon as possible; in this way you begin to get the necessary exercises which make the walls of the abdomen firm again so that you can take them by using only the muscles of the abdomen in this accomplishment.

PEKING, June 19.—Senator William E. Borah's statement in Washington that there is nothing in the Chinese situation necessitating any change in America's traditional friendliness for China caused general satisfaction and rejoicing in the capital today.

POSTOFFICE CREW BEATS CHURCH

Whitley Pitches For Mail Carriers And Whiffs Eight Batters

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.
The Christian church dropped a hard luck game to the Postoffice crew in a twilight league contest, played yesterday afternoon at the Broadway High school grounds. Up to the sixth inning, it was a fairly tight game, but in the sixth, the mailmen got next to Bates' slants, and sent a flock of hits into the outfield. The score was: Postoffice 12, Christian church 5.

Whitley, stellar catcher of the postal crew, appeared in a new role yesterday, when he took the mound and pitched the entire game. Whitley issued only one pass, and whiffed eight. Richards, his battery mate, also switched, doing the receiving instead of chucking.

The game was the first contest played under the new ruling adopted Wednesday night which calls for nine men on each team to be on the field not later than 5:40 o'clock and play ball until the umpire calls the game on account of darkness.

Noticeable in yesterday's game was the absence of extra base bingles. Weger connected for a triple in the first inning, and Selover got a double in the fifth. The remaining ten hits made by the mailmen were singles. The churchmen failed to get hits when hits meant runs.

This afternoon the Huli Trucks and the Radios will battle at the Broadway High school grounds, to wind up the sixth week of play in the first round. Next week will see some changes in the standings as league leaders are scheduled to play, and on June 29 the second round will start.

Pipe Pipp, Perfect Pickler

Passes perennially, packs prodigious punch in pinches, puts pill perforcefully, pulls pineapples from perilous positions and plays pretty, as the press agents might say. The gent referred to is none other than WALLIE PIPP, a member of the Yankee wrecking crew.

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Written for The Evening News

It's about time for Wallie

"Pickling" Pipp to be traded again by the Yankees. He was benched the other day. It has taken less than such a move to start tales in past seasons of plans to separate him from his Yankee uniform.

"Pipp has been traded 'on paper" to every ball club in the American league during his ten years with the club. The reasons assigned have ranged from a desire to "strengthen the team" to

"getting harmony in the club."

Both bluffs have been called by

New York fans whenever trade winds become brisk.

And in the meantime, in between times, Wallie has had fun.

He has played much better ball than anyone has given him credit for. He has listened to the good and mean things said about him and kept his poise—and his batting eye.

The three or four efforts to trade him to obtain other playing strength were nipped in the bud—if they ever were meant seriously. No one with good sense would trade a hard-hitting first baseman—one of the best batters and fielders in the game in an effort to add strength to a club

unless he could get half a ball team in return. A good first baseman is a vital cog in a baseball machine. Ask the Cleveland club owners who have been trying to find one for ten or twelve years.

Speaking of Wallie and first basemen, the Tiger bosses probably kick themselves around occasionally when both are mentioned.

Wallie had made quite a rep

as a young infielder with Kalamazoo

in 1911 and part of 1912

when the Tigers bought him. He received a tryout that fall and then was released on option to Providence and then Scranton.

The Tigers recalled him in 1914 only to turn him over to Rochester. When the Yankees were begging everybody for ballplayers in 1915 to help them assemble able a team that could play big league ball the Tigers sold him to the New York club at the waiver price.

Some gift.

Pipp has been a regular member of the Yankee wrecking crew.

His hitting and fielding at first played an important part in the

The HOUSE Of The ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON
Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

She handed the fragment of paper back to Hanaud, who sat and looked at it. Jim Frohisher standing just behind him read the printed ends of names and words and the figures beneath and happened to remember the very look of them. Hanaud held them so long in his hand; the top bit of name in large capital letters, the words below encircled in smaller capitals, then the figures in the columns and all enclosed in a rough sort of triangle with the diagonal line browned and made ragged by the fire—thus—

"Well, it is of no importance luckily," said Hanaud and he tossed the scrap of paper back into the grate. "Did you notice these ashes, Monsieur Girardot, on Sunday morning?" He turned any slur the question might seem to cast upon Betty's truthfulness with an explanation.

"It is always good when it is possible to get a corroboration, Mademoiselle."

Betty nodded, but Girardot was at a loss. He managed to look extremely important, but importance was not required.

"I don't remember," he said. "However, corroboration of a kind at all events did come through from another source."

"If I might speak, Monsieur Hanaud," said Maurice Thevenet eagerly.

"But by all means," Hanaud replied.

"I came into this room just behind Monsieur Girardot on the Sunday morning. I did not see any ashes in the hearth, that is true. But Mademoiselle Harlowe was in the act of arranging that screen of blue lacquer in front of the fireplace, just as we saw it today. She arranged it, and when she saw her visitors were she stood up with a start of surprise."

"Ah!" said Hanaud, cordially. "It is better that we hold our tongues," he said with a nod and a grin which recognized that in this matter they were accomplices.

"This is to be our exclusive little secret, which, if he is very good, we will share with Monsieur le Commissaire."

He laughed hugely at his joke, while Betty unlocked a drawer in the Chippendale secretary, Girardot, the commissaire, tittered, not quite sure that he thought very highly of it. Monsieur Bex, on the other hand, by a certain extra primness of his face, made it perfectly clear that in his opinion such a joke was very, very far from correct.

Betty produced a folded sheet of common paper and handed it to Hanaud, who took it aside to the window and read it carefully. Then with a look he beckoned Girardot to his side.

"Monsieur Frohisher can come too. For he is in the secret," he added; and the three men stood apart at the window looking at the sheet of paper. It was dated May 7, signed "The Scourge," like the others of this hideous brood, and it began without any preface. There were only a few words typed upon it, and some of them were epithets not to be reproduced which made Jim's blood boil that a girl like Betty should ever have had to read them.

"Your time is coming now, you see," and here followed the string of abominable obscenities.

"You are for it, Betty Harlowe, Hanaud the detective from Paris is coming to look after you with his handcuffs in his pocket. You'll look pretty in handcuffs, won't you, Betty? It's your white neck we want! Three cheers for Waters!"

Girardot stared at the brutal words and settled his glasses on his nose and stared again.

"But—but—" he stammered and he pointed to the date. A warning gesture made by Hanaud brought him to a sudden stop, but Frohisher had little doubt as to the purport of that unfinished exclamation. Girardot was astonished to see Hanaud himself had been, that this item of news had so quickly leaked abroad.

Hanaud folded the letter and turned back into the room.

"Thank you, Mademoiselle," he said to Betty, and Thevenet, the secretary, took his notebook from his pocket.

"Shall I make you a copy of the letter, Monsieur Hanaud?" he said, sitting down and holding out his hand.

"I wasn't going to give it back," Hanaud answered, "and a copy at the present stage isn't necessary. A little later on I may ask your assistance."

He put the letter away in his letter-case, and his letter-case away in his breast-pocket. When he turned again he saw that Betty was holding out to him a key.

"This unlocks the cabinet at the end of the room," she said.

"Yes! Let us look now for the famous arrow, or we shall have Monsieur Frohisher displeased with us again," said Hanaud.

The cabinet stood against the wall at the end of the room opposite to the windows, and close to the door which opened on to the hall. Hanaud took the key, unlocked the door of the cabinet and started back with a "Wow."

He was really startled, for facing him upon a shelf were two tiny human heads, perfect in feature, in hair, in eyes, but reduced to the size of big oranges. They were the heads of Indian tribesmen killed upon the banks of the Amazon, and preserved and reduced by their conquerors by the process common among those forests.

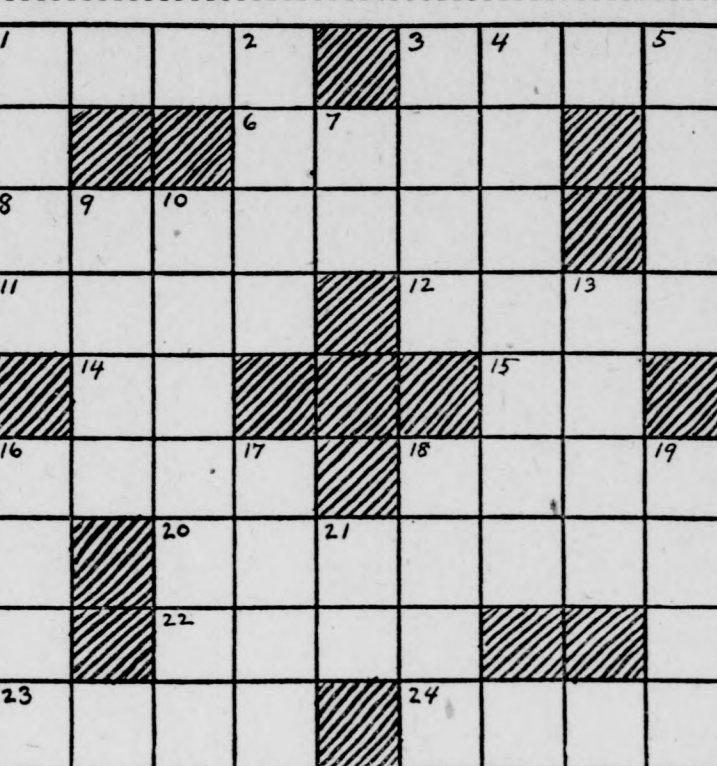

"If the arrow is anywhere in this room, it is here that we should find it," he said, but though he found many curious oddities in that cabinet, of the perfect specimen of a poison arrow there was never a trace. He turned away with an air of disappointment.

"Well then, Mademoiselle, there is nothing else for it," he said reluctantly; and for an hour he searched that room, turning back the carpet, examining the upholstery of the chairs, and the curtains, shaking out every vase, and finally giving his attention to Betty's secretary. He probed every cranny of it; he discovered the simple mechanism of its secret drawers; he turned out every pigeon-hole; working with extraordinary swiftness and replacing everything in its proper place. At the end of the hour the room was as orderly as when he had entered it; yet he had gone through it with a tooth comb.

"No, it is not here," he said and

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE
The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.
Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue unbrokenly.
Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white square that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white squares remain unbrokenly.

he seated himself in a chair and drew a breath. "But, on the other hand, as the two ladies and Monsieur Frohisher are aware, I was prepared not to find it here."

"We have finished then," said Betty, but Hanaud did not stir.

"For a moment," he replied, "I shall be glad, Monsieur Girardot, if you will remove the seals in the hall from the door at the end of the room."

The commissaire went out by the way of Mrs. Harlowe's bedroom, accompanied by his secretary. After a minute had passed a key grated in the lock and the door was opened. The commissaire and his secretary returned into the room from the hall.

"Good!" said Hanaud. "He rose from this chair and looking around at the little group, now grown puzzled and anxious, he said very gravely:

"In the interest of justice I now ask that none of you shall interrupt me by either word or gesture, for I have an experiment to make."

In a complete silence he walked to the fireplace and rang the bell.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Gaston answered the bell. "Will you please send Francine Rollard here?" said Hanaud.

Gaston, however, stood his

"If Mademoiselle gives me the order," he said respectfully.

"At once then, Gaston," Betty replied, and she sat down in a chair.

Francine Rollard was apparently difficult to persuade. For the minutes passed, and when at last she did come into the treasure room, she was a girl hardly over 20, very neat and trim and pretty, and rather like some wild shy creature out of the woods. She looked round the group which waited her with restless eyes and a sullen air of suspicion. But it was the suspicion of wild people for townsfolk.

"Rollard," said Hanaud gently, "I sent for you, for I want another woman to help me in acting a little scene."

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS
Copyright, 1925, By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Warm was the sun and gentle the wind one day in Woodland, where Uncle Wiggily Longears lived in his hollow stump bungalow with Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, his new wife, and many little boy and girl rabbits. So lovely was the weather that it was no wonder Jingle and Jangle and Tingle and Tangle and Tootle and Scooter and Weezie and Wizzie—in fact, all the little bunnies—didn't want to go to school.

"But yes, my dear—come! hurry! You must go to school and you must be on time!" cried Mrs. Longears as she looked at their pink noses to see if they were twinkling straight as they were their new daddy's. "Hop along to school like good children. Soon the summer vacation will be here."

"Oh, I wish we didn't have to go to school!" sighed Jingle.

"I wish we could stay home and go adventuring like Uncle Wiggily," sighed Jangle.

"I'll take you adventuring after you come from school," promised Mr. Longears.

"Oh, that will be lovely!" said most of the children. But Wizzie, who was twin brother to Weezie, whispered to his sister:

"I'm not going to wait until after school to go adventuring!"

"What are you going to do?" asked Weezie, in surprise.

"I'm going adventuring right now!" declared Wizzie, positive like. "Come on, we'll have some fun," and he pulled his sister to him. "We had better go up in that sunny field and get dry," said Weezie. But the field was filled with burdock weed plants. And growing on the burdock were many sticky, prickly burrs which clung to the fur of the little rabbit boy and girl, until they were covered thickly.

And then, all of a sudden, there was a rustling noise in the grass, and Weezie, who was trying to pick the burrs off her legs, cried:

"Oh, maybe it's the Fuzzie Fox!"

"No, it's our Daddy-cums-Uncle Wiggily!" joyfully cried Wizzie.

"Ha! Who is calling my name?" asked the bunny gentleman stopping to look at the two little rabbits.

"Why, we did—don't you know us?" asked Weezie. "This is Wizzie and I'm his sister. We live at your bungalow and—"

"What's that?—You are Weezie and Wizzie?" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"Nonsense! Weezie and Wizzie are in school! Besides, you are nothing but a bunch of burdock burrs—you aren't even rabbits!"

"Oh, yes we are. Yes we are! Truly we are!" cried the twins. "Help us pull off the burdock and clean off the mud and water and you'll see!"

So Uncle Wiggily did this and beneath the layers of mud, water and burdock he found his own two little rabbits.

"Oh, ho! So you played truant from school, did you?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Yes—yes—we did!" sobbed Weezie and Wizzie. "But we'll never do it again!" And they never did. And on the way home the Bob Cat tried to jump down out of a tree to nibble their ears. But Uncle Wiggily threw burdock burrs at the bad chap until they covered his eyes and he couldn't see to catch the rabbits. So if the ink bottle doesn't stand on its head and try to pop its cork at the looking glass, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the four-leaf clover.

ARCTIC POLE IS NO NATION'S PROPERTY

Region Open for Seizure, Provided It Is Settled, Say Experts on Law

By M. S. NEWTON
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

MONTREAL, Que., June 19.—Canada and the United States may have to go back to Queen Elizabeth to learn that finding isn't keeping, when it comes to the question of newly discovered land, whether such land is in the vicinity of the north pole or elsewhere.

"By a principle of international law which has been adopted by all nations since the days of Queen Elizabeth, who first claimed the right to occupy any lands previously discovered but not effectively occupied, Canada legally owns only those lands which are either settled or which she at least occupies by posts."

This is the judgment of Professor P. E. Corbett, Gale professor of Roman law, lecturer in international law at McGill university, and formerly employed by the league of nations secretariat as international boundary expert, upon the question raised all over Canada and the United States by the declaration of Donald MacMillan, explorer, that he will claim for the United States any new land found by him on his expedition to the pole.

Open to Occupancy

"Canada's only legal claim to the islands in the arctic is the title by discovery and occupation. In any case where lands have simply been found, proclaimed British and then abandoned, they are still open to occupancy by a foreign power," Professor Corbett holds.

In the language of the man "in the street," possession is not only nine points of the law in the case of new lands—it is the whole law.

Donald MacMillan, as an explorer commissioned by the United States (to be "commissioned" is necessary, Professor Corbett says), can claim any unoccupied islands discovered by him in the arctic, northern of Canadian mainland, and outside of territorial waters.

Out of Politics

But—for the land actually to become American, it not only would have to be discovered but would have to be occupied, at least by post. This principle of international law, that land to be owned must be occupied, would seem to put any question of national ownership of the north pole, once found, out of practical politics.

Reviewing the whole subject of Canada's sovereignty over the arctic lands and the legal points involved, Professor Corbett says: "It used to be thought in the great age of discovery and until the seventeenth century, that mere discovery was sufficient title to any new land. For example, in the sixteenth century the Spanish and the Portuguese claimed America and the East Indies by title of discovery. That was a claim Queen Elizabeth vigorously opposed, asserting the right to occupy lands which, although they had been discovered by Spain and Portugal, were not effectively occupied. The right so stated by Elizabeth has always been maintained by Great Britain and has in course of time become the rule of international law."

Small Posts Enough

As to what would be actually regarded as "possession" in arctic latitudes, Professor Corbett says in a country subject to such severe climatic conditions and so difficult of access, Canada must be considered as adequately occupying lands in that area in which she keeps a series of communicating posts, even though they are distant and scantily manned.

Professor Corbett says the authorities at Ottawa are perfectly well founded when they say that any American expedition must apply for permission to fly across any lands which are Canadian.

The United States did not ratify the air navigation convention concluded in Paris in 1919, which affirmed the principle of the sovereignty over the air, but provided for the freedom of the air for passengers over the territories of the contracting parties to all powers signatory to the convention provided the rules of the country flown over were complied with.

Sad Tale of Mouse Minus Slender Tail

A criminal always returns to the scene of his crime. It's an old adage and one that has proven out in police circles many times. A. L. Thomson, proprietor of the Glen Inn on South Brand boulevard, has the latest case to report.

Two months ago Mrs. Thomson found the severed tail of a mouse left in a mouse trap which had been set the night before. Mr. Mouse, however, minus his tail, had effected an escape. It was not until this morning, two months later, that Thomson was sure the criminal rodent had returned to the scene of his crime. In the trap this morning was a mouse, stiff and cold, and obviously like an ordinary mouse but he had a bobbed tail.

AMUNDSEN TO AGAIN SEEK WORLD TOP

In 150 miles of the North pole, according to advices today. No land was sighted.

Amundsen's trip, it was said, again to try to fly to the pole.

Details of Amundsen's daring trip were eagerly awaited by all Norway today. The news of his safety was received with rejoicing. National anthems were played in public places and crowds stood in the streets cheering.

There was much conjecture here today what Amundsen's conclusions will be as a result of his flight. He said he was not able to see many miles beyond the point where one of his aeroplanes was frozen in an ice land. When he started on the return journey he was wondering whether the "observation" indicated there was no land in the vicinity of the North pole.

It is believed from preliminary reports which have come from him at Kings Bay that he is convinced that on the Norwegian side of the polar region there is nothing but ice and open water.

Scientists in Discussion

Explorers and scientists here were discussing the probable effect of Amundsen's experience on other exploration parties and specifically whether it would alter the Donald B. MacMillan expedition which had been preparing to leave the United States.

Throughout Norway there were many expressions of condolence for Lieutenant Ellsworth, the Ohio aviator who accompanied Amundsen. Ellsworth's father, who helped finance the expedition, died in Italy while the world was wondering whether the North pole flyers were dead or alive.

Ellsworth was greatly moved on his arrival at Kings Bay to learn of his father's death. He was quoted as saying that all of the money coming to him from the estate of his father would be at the disposal of Amundsen for further exploration.

Early reports of Amundsen's experience do not indicate the expedition suffered hardships although scientists said that the Amundsen feat required great fortitude and persistence.

Amundsen had not reached a decision whether to return to Lady Franklin Bay, 130 miles from Kings Bay, for the aeroplane which he left there when the returning expedition boarded the Norwegian sealer. It was not thought here he would go to Lady Franklin Bay but would send a salvage crew or request the Norwegian government to dispatch a cruiser to bring back the plane. This was another possibility that either the steamer Farm or Hobby which aided Amundsen in getting started on his initial flight, would go to Lady Franklin Bay.

Landing Not Expected

The viewpoint of Norwegian scientists on Amundsen's experience were summed up by Dr. Statum, "president of the Norwegian geographical society."

"It was not expected," said Dr. Statum, "that Captain Amundsen could land at the exact situation of the North pole. The fact that he has been away twenty-eight days proved that he has obtained useful observation data in spite of great difficulties."

"It was a far easier feat for him when he reached the South pole. Then he had land all of the time."

Battle With Ice, Save Airplane, Six On Board

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, June 19.—Lieutenant Lincoln Ellsworth, the Ohio aviator who accompanied Roald Amundsen in his attempt to fly to the North pole, rescued two members of the expedition from drowning while Amundsen's plane was icebound, Commander Christian Prestrud, naval attaché in London of the Norwegian government, declared here today.

Prestrud was with Amundsen when he discovered the South pole.

"I have not all of the details as yet of what happened during Amundsen's flight," Prestrud told International News Service, "but

U. S. EXPLORER TELLS PLANS IN ARCTIC

Amundsen's Return Permits MacMillan Party to Make Scientific Study

By BERT FORD
For International News Service.

WISCASSETT, Me., June 19.—"We are all too happy for words to learn that Amundsen and his party have returned safely and we send to our fellow explorers our heartiest congratulations and good wishes."

Commander Donald Baxter MacMillan who is to leave here for his ninth exploration of the Arctic on Saturday, gave emphasis to his words by a hearty clasp of his hands. His blue eyes twinkled and a smile brightened his bronzed face.

"I always felt Amundsen would win out. I did not think there was any cause for anxiety until his food gave out."

"We can now go back to our original plans for scientific exploration of the vast unknown continent in the polar region. We can sail on Saturday with our original purpose in mind without fearing that we had not done our duty by our fellow explorer."

Two-Hour Flight

"We intended to establish a base at Cape Columbia in the search for Amundsen. Now we will revert to our plan to establish a base at Cape Thomas Hubbard at the northern end of Axel Heiberg island which is but a two-hour flight from the largest unexplored area in the north."

"We shall proceed to Etah at the northern tip of Greenland which I consider as far as any ships can travel without serious danger. From the ship's base the three naval amphibian planes will be flown 250 miles to an advance base for food and another to be used as a shuttle with the planes at our advanced exploration point to carry supplies."

"From a scientific standpoint the return of Amundsen and his party insures our expedition greater success. It was no secret that we had decided to sacrifice much in subordinating our plans to preparations for the search for Amundsen. Plans for this expedition have been long under way. The matter of fuel for the naval planes alone in the contemplated hunt for Amundsen was a serious problem."

Study of Eskimo flappers in color photography of "red" seal Arctic poppies and roses and of new animal, bird and fish life in the frozen north would be some of the many features of the invasion of the far north. Baseball would be introduced to the Eskimos by Maynard Owen Williams, special writer of the geographic society. Williams said today.

"We are going to organize a nine that will play at the top of the world. No danger of the game being called for darkness in Arctic summer. It ought to be easy to slip to base up there."

I have heard a great deal of Ellsworth and his determination to reach the pole.

"I feel sure Ellsworth will work with Amundsen to start a new expedition, but probably the new expedition will not be with an airship, because, it seems to me, Amundsen has demonstrated the impracticability of airplane flying to the pole."

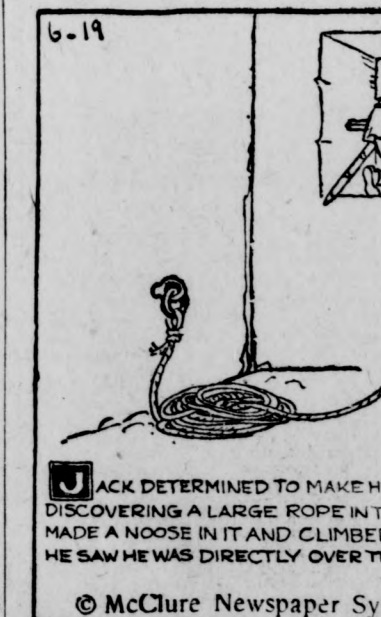

"An airship could not land at the pole, but it could fly over it and make observations and possibly anchor over the pole."

"It was a remarkable feat," continued Prestrud, commenting on the hardships of the expedition, "for six men to extricate an airplane weighing a ton and a half from packed ice."

"It must have been a dramatic moment when the six men climbed in one plane, uncertain whether it would take off, because, after four weeks, they could not be sure it would operate. They burned their bridges behind them, because they had abandoned most of their equipment. If they had been forced down 100 miles from Spitzbergen they would have had a hard fight to reach civilization. With little food and equipment, they made a bold gamble and won."

"One of the remarkable things proved by the trip is that the fuel did not last as long as was expected. This probably was due to the cold atmosphere."

LAZINESS MAKES FAILURE, HE SAYS

Optimist Club Hears H. V. Adams In Talk During Weekly Luncheon

"Laziness is the cause of all failure," H. V. Adams declared in an address before the Glendale Optimist club today noon at the Egyptian Village cafe.

"Men must be physically, mentally and morally awake and industrious if they desire to succeed. There is no such thing as governmental magic that will remedy all our ills, as many pedagogic politicians would have us believe. Laws will not stop crime and pills are not the only remedy or prevention for ill health. We can do nothing without work. The trouble with the world is that four-cylinder men are in most instances running around on one cylinder."

The Optimists will entertain their wives at a picnic to be held some time within the next two weeks, it was voted today. Dr. Harold J. Cooper, Dr. G. Kaemmerling and Al Lewis will form a committee to arrange for the outing.

The Glen-Op-Times, official publication of the club, will become a full-fledged newspaper, and will be printed instead of mimeographed in the future, President C. D. Lusby announced.

Dr. Harry V. Brown made a report on membership today. Club singing was led by A. H. Voelker, with Wesley Kuhnle accompanying at the piano.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, June 19.—Forward price movements in the stock market today were confined to a small number of industrial and specialty stocks and represented little more than continued activity of the professional pools. While stocks were sold in some sections of the market for profit-taking and "switching" purposes, others were being pushed upward to higher price levels in an effort to attract speculative attention. The professionals whipped up the copper stocks in the first hour or two as the result of the advance in copper metal to around 14 cents a pound, but these stocks were deserted in effort of the specialists shortly after the noon period.

Many of the industrial and specialty stocks displayed more activity today than any other session of the week. Railroad stocks and public utility shares heretofore inactive returned to the active list and general rallies of a point or more resulted. New York Central and other shares regained most of the losses sustained early in the week.

There was sufficient short selling and profit taking to check some unsettlement and lower prices, particularly in the industrial leaders. Bearish traders again concentrated their attacks on American Can and Baldwin, but apparently with little success in bringing out long stocks.

They had better success with Pierce-Arrow common and Ward Baking, though the latter retained its losses later in the day. International T. & T., Postum Cereal, Famous Players and Great Western Sugar gathered momentum for a good advance in the fourth hour and Colorado Fuel & Iron was buoyant from the start; Armour of Illinois reached a new high, above 23. American Sugar sold up to 66.

The recovery of French and Italian exchange presented quite a contrast to Thursday's demoralized market, though both currencies are far below the "normal" of the present period. Domestic business conditions and money markets were unchanged.

A heavy decline in Smackover crude oil production was without particular effect on the oil stocks. Some interesting figures were published relative to the sugar industry, showing that consumption has been larger than generally believed, and that the carry-over will be comparatively small. Low prices for raw and refined sugar stimulated larger consumption in canning and household use.

Detroit dispatches were as insistent with regard to impending mergers in the motor industry as they were at the time of the Dodge Brothers' sale, when "official" denial of a forthcoming sale was issued almost simultaneously with publication of the actual terms of the sale. Automobile circles look confidently for a combination of Hudson, Hupp, Briggs and other car and accessories concerns.

White Motors and Hudson led the rally in motors in the last hour. White Motors sold above 74, for a 3-point gain, and Hudson was up 2 1/2. Nash recovered its 21-point loss.

Rail stocks were strong and active in this period, with Northwestern rails in the lead. Great Northern and Northern Pacific sold from 1 to 2 points higher; Pennsylvania was up 1 1/2; 16 1/4 Southern Railway up 1 1/4; New York Central and Atchafson fractionally higher.

The market was active and strong in every department at the close.

Stock sales, 1,446,000 shares; bonds, $10,784,000.

L. A. EXCHANGE

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—United Oil was leader on an active oil market at the session of the Los Angeles stock exchange today. The stock opened at $59, mounted to a new high of $59.50, and closed back down to $59.25, net sales totaling 257 shares. The entire market was fairly active, the public utilities losing some ground and the mines trading well.

Wages of child operatives in Ecuador's textile mills average $1.80 a week.

MARKET SUMMARY

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Bankers today were invited to bid on $11,350,000 municipal bonds voted at the June 2 election, the sale to be held next Wednesday morning at 10:30.

The oil industry has reached a stable basis and exceptional profits are predicted by Colonel R. W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, according to market wires.

President William Sproule of the Southern Pacific and other officials have completed a program here for the movement of heavy crop shipments this season. Sixteen thousand refrigerator cars are available.

J. Danney Day, banker, speaking before the Los Angeles Wholesale Credit Men's association last night, pointed to the opportunities for cotton growing in the San Joaquin valley as soon as irrigation can be developed. He also urged cattle raising as a diversification for fruit growers.

FOREST CAMPS CLEARED IN CANYONS

Angeles Reserve Sites To Be Open To Public As Soon
As Work Is Ended

Many camp grounds are to be cleared in the front canyons of the Angeles national forest for the benefit of the public and all open wood fires and smoking will be confined to these spots.

Forest Supervisor Geo. H. Cecil states that a crew of four men, equipped with shovels, axes, rakes, power pumps and gasoline torches will begin the cleaning of the available spots in the many canyons for the public camp grounds, within the next two days, and all fires must be thoroughly wet down with the power pumps and hose and all inflammable material will then be burned off, making the escape of camp fires less likely.

Fire Permit Needed
A camp fire permit must be obtained before a fire is built, even in a gasoline stove, and anyone found with a fire and without a permit will be arrested. Even though camp fires are confined to the regular camping places, the state law requires that they be thoroughly extinguished before leaving.

No smoking will be permitted along the roads and trails in the Angeles forest except at the camping grounds and places of habitation. Both the federal and state laws prohibit the throwing away of burning matches, cigars, cigarettes and pipe heels.
